FROM THE PRINCIPAL'S DESK

Dear Students

With the help of this volume of newsletter, I would like to draw your attention towards small habits which has the power to make big difference. Habits may be good or bad. Both works simultaneously in one's life. Good Habits are those which help a person to improve themselves while bad habits are those which has the capacity to give small short-term pleasures but in long term it proves to be disastrous. Its up to a person to decide which habit to continue and which one to dissolve. One must also work to eliminate the bad habit in the same way one learns a new one. Small steps taken to inculcate a habit has the potential to help the person in long term as habits are said to have a compounding effect. My suggestion to you my dear students will be to make it a point to take small baby steps towards building good habits in your life as habits shape identity.

All the best for your future endeavours!

Women Empowerment and Sustainable Development

Dr. Mamta Bhatnagar
Assistant Professor, B.Ed.

On 8th march 2022, we celebrated International Women's Day with the UN theme "Gender equality Today for a Sustainable Tomorrow" with an aim to recognize women who are working to build a more sustainable future. An American religious leader and politician Brigham Young, once rightly said that "When you educate a man you educate a man, But when you educate a woman you educate a generation".

In today's world, educated, employed and empowered women are breaking the cycle of poverty not only for themselves, but also for their families, communities, and countries. The main processes that can lead to women's empowerment are the changes in women's mobilization and socialization, changes in the labor pattern of women, changes in women's access to and control of resources, and changes in women's control over decision-making.

In traditional societies, women's empowerment does not happen easily or overnight. Women can be strengthened financially by encouraging them toward a business through quality education and skills. Social and financial empowerment of women can be started especially with the help of Agro industries, banking services, and digitization.

India is moving rapidly towards the Sustainable Development Goals to make the earth a better place for humanity by 2030. Gender equality and women's empowerment are the core of Sustainable Development Goals. At present, special attention has been paid to ensuring women's participation in important areas like management, environmental protection, and inclusive economic and social development. The central government under the leadership of Prime Minister Shri Narendra Modi has launched several schemes to promote entrepreneurship in the country. To overcome the challenges faced by SC, ST, and women entrepreneurs, many schemes related to Stand-up India, and Start-up have been started. Now setting up of a Women Entrepreneurship Platform portal is a major initiative, a flagship initiative of NITI Aayog. It is a first-of-its-kind integrated portal that provides a platform to women from a wide range of backgrounds and provides them access to a wide range of resources.

Women start-ups are important to keep women's contribution in the field of entrepreneurship. Now women have entered the fields of entrepreneurship with absolute enthusiasm and energy. Women through Self Help Groups (SHGs) are not only empowering themselves but also contributing to the strength of our economy. Their participation in the formation of a self-reliant India is increasing day by day with the continuous financial support of the government. The campaign of women's self-help groups has intensified in the last 6-7 years. According to an official report, there are approximately 70 lakh Self Help Groups across the country. There is a need to understand the valour of women, which will take our society to greater heights of glory.

GANGA JAMUNA TEHZEEB: SANGAM

Mr. Anuj Pandey
Assistant Professor, Commerce

The city of Prayagraj is not just a name but a confluence of our culture, our civilization, our identity and our investiture. Usually this place is known as the confluence of three rivers, but it is also considered to be the confluence of our thoughts and feelings. A place where muddy water meets green water and gives birth to a new river called Yamuna. Due to this characteristic of Sangam, we also know it by the name of Ganga Jamuna Tehzeeb. Today's modern Allahabad is known worldwide as Prayagraj, The holy land of Prayagraj symbolizes the confluence of three great rivers. According to mythology, the meeting of rivers at any place signifies purity. These holy rivers Ganga, Yamuna and Saraswati together give birth to the Sangam, in which the person who takes a bath becomes detached from the illusion. Mythology has been told that at the time of Samudra Manthan, Lord Vishnu was carrying the nectar-filled Kumbh from which four drops fell on the earth during a fight with the Asuras on the way, which became known as a pilgrimage site. These holy places are Prayag, Haridwar, Nasik and Ujjain. According to this belief, Kumbh Mela is organized every three years at these holy places. The world's largest fair is held on the banks of the Sangam on this holy land. The culture of India recognizes many rivers flowing in India as their mother, of which prayagraj. Sangam is one where the Ganga river is called as Ganga maa.

Dear Self,

I'm sorry for the time when I didn't believe in you.

I'm sorry for the opportunities that I missed because I wasn't able to trust my instincts.

I'm sorry for putting yourself after everyone when I should've prioritised yourself before anyone..

I'm sorry for overlooking your strength when every voice inside my head were screaming that "YOU CAN DO IT!".

I'm sorry for not taking good care of yourself, when all you needed was a little 'self- love'.

I'm sorry for the days I felt insecure about my body when I should've stood by the fact that each one of us is a masterpiece of God's creation..

Now, that I've understood..

I promise to be gentle with myself on the days when my mind isn't the calmest..

Dear Self, I promise to make you proud every single day...

खुद को पहचानो

सुनो सब की, पर करो खुद की
क्योंकि जानती हो बेहतर तुम खुद को खुद
से ही,
लोग बहुत कुछ कहेंगे,
वो कभी न चुप रहेंगे,
पर चुनना हमेशा वहीं जो तुम्हें खुद के लिए
लगे सही,
ज़िन्दगी तुम्हारी है, ख़ाब तुम्हारा है
रास्ता तुम्हारा है, मंज़िल तुम्हारी है
फिर इनके फैसले दूसरो के हाथों में
क्या देना होगा सही,
ये सवाल तुम पूछो खुद से ही,
खुद से ही ।

I Wanna Lost

I wanna lost in a wonderful place where no one knows me where silence can find out where no one can knockout

I wanna lost in such a place where I can do what I want where no one judges me
where I cannot feel lonely

I wanna lost in such a place
where I found ashore with beautiful twilight where the star meet under the night sky
where i can go out without saying bye

I wanna lost in my dreams space where I found peace with delightful days where I can share my thoughts without thinking what people will says

I wanna lost in my dreams place where I can meet with my happiness
I wanna lost in such a place

Books are our best companions

The poet Robert Southey has beautifully called books his never-failing friends with whom he converses everybody. Books enlighten give knowledge, entertain and inform us. Whether we read books printed on paper or tele books, their importance cannot be denied. They fill our minds and hearts with hope and joy. Writers like Tagore have put forward to us their life on a platter to understand their goals and teachings. When we read books, we are in the company of the best and the noblest minds of all ages. They enrich our minds. Books are a storehouse of knowledge. Books often provide a person with the ability to judge between right and wrong and the courage to follow the righteous path. Books indeed provide a pleasurable company and prove to be a trustworthy and lifelong companion.
