About the Webinar
Literatures around the world have adapted themselves to the changing times, the pandemic not the only major force challenging and changing it. Political upheavals, military action, changing status of women's role in society, the decreasing tolerance of dissent, and frequent recurrences of environmental disasters around the world have played a major role in changing the face of literature. One of the many big changes has been the advent of the visual novels and the modern literary theory and praxis have also been effectively reshaped by these forces, thus effecting the rise of new paradigms in the analysis and understanding of literature.
